

N. J. BARGAIN WEEK!

& Co.
Famous Millinery and Fancy Goods Department.

ECONOMISTS
In search of best values in Summer MILLINERY

Will nowhere find greater scope for supplying their wants and indulging their tastes than at our house.

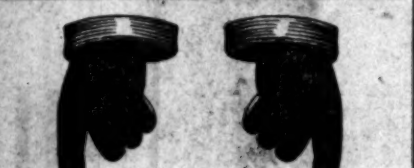

In Straw Goods we have everything for every age from 2 Years Old to 80.

Buying all goods strictly for cash, and in larger quantities than any other house in our line, enables us to offer many bargains unapproachable. All goods marked in plain figures.

S. J. BRITTAIN & Co.

Famous Millinery Department, Fifth and Morgan.

-SPECIAL DRIVE- IN-

STRAW HATS.

We will place on sale to-day 60 DOZ. YOUNG GENTS' MALACCA STRAW DERBYS

AT $1, REGULAR PRICE $1.75

ALSO 100 DOZEN BOYS' STRAW HATS,

Brown and Tan colored, which we have marked to sell at 25c; regular price being 50c.

We carry the largest line of GENTS' and BOYS' HATS, and FANCY DERBYS in the city, our prices being the lowest quoted by any Hat House in the West.

Look out for the Big Clothing Sale next week.

FAMOUS SHOE AND CLOTHING CO.

SIX STORES UNDER ONE ROOF.

CLOTHING, MILLINERY, HATS, CHINA, PARASOLS, BOOKS, FRUITS, SADDLERY, AND HAMMOCKS.

Has full Cap good free with every boy's hat or cap bought from Parsons.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, ONLY $1 BY MAIL POST-PAID.

KNOW THYSELF.

A Great Medical Work on Manhood.

Enriched with Vitality, Nervous and Physical Details, Prescribes Remedies for all Diseases of Manhood.

Address: The Science of Life, Dr. W. H. Parsons, No. 411 North Third Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Chronic and Rheumatic Diseases, and all other ailments, treated with the most successful and reliable medicine.

"Well, then, you take the cure!"

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim.

Misfortune in a drive.

But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim.

Misfortune in a drive.

But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim.

Misfortune in a drive.

But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim.

Misfortune in a drive.

But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

THE LATEST STYLES OF OUR SPRING AND SUMMER HATS

QUICK WORK.

William Brown Executed at Belleville This Morning.

For the Most Bloody Butchery Ever Known in Southern Illinois.

A Ghastly Murder Which Was Followed by Speedy Retribution—History of the Killing of the Peddler, Lavigne—The Scene on the Scaffold.

NUNES-JALKUT MILLINERY CO.,
705 and 707 Franklin Avenue.

We Carry an Immense Stock in All Departments

RIBBONS of all widths and shades we offer at special bargains. In our mammoth stock of beautiful Flowers great reductions have been made in prices during the week.

Laces, Fichus, Toilet Articles,

For Ladies, Silks, etc., we show an immense stock. Ladies who wish to obtain the LATEST NOVELTIES in Millinery at Panic Prices, should not fail to call this week at the

Nunes-Jalkut Millinery Co.,
705 AND 707 FRANKLIN AVENUE.

720! 720!

A ST. LOUIS INSTITUTION

Founded on Honest Merit and Square Dealing.

THE GRAND ATLANTIC TEA CO.,
720 N. FIFTH ST., One Door South of Morgan.

Choice and Popular Brands of Teas, Coffees and Sugars

Direct Importers and Handlers.

Coffees Roasted on the Premises Every Hour.

SUGARS RETAILED AT REFINERS' PRICES.

Our TEAS are the Latest Importations, embracing the Choicest Brands, which we guarantee to be Pure and Unadulterated.

Orders by Mail Receive Prompt and Careful Attention. Goods Shipped to All Parts of the Country. Money Refunded if Goods are Not as Represented.

J. C. HARVEY, - - - Manager.

AND TINNERS' STOCK OF ALL KINDS.

FOR SALE BY EXCELSIOR MANUFACTURING CO.

McNichols Keeps Up With the Progression!

What We Owe to Him Now.

You know that men are apt to do some rather curious things. You never saw two men so strict. You never saw two men so strict. You never saw two men so strict.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim. Misfortune in a drive. But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim. Misfortune in a drive. But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim. Misfortune in a drive. But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim. Misfortune in a drive. But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

Our chance for dinner looked quite slim. Misfortune in a drive. But Mary escaped in safety and in the morning.

and Lee and Brother Minor arrived at the jail at 8:30 a. m. and spent an hour in prayer with the condemned man. Brown took part in the exercises and prayed in a clear, loud voice.

Justice A. Dawson sent for a barber shortly after 8 o'clock this morning in compliance with a request of Brown to be shaved before he died. A Post-Dispatch reporter had a few minutes' chat with the condemned man while he was awaiting the arrival of the barber, and found him in excellent spirits for one who had but a few short hours to live. In answer to a question as to how he spent the night, he replied: "I was for me, and I waited when I saw the first signs of day creeping through the jail windows."

"What made the night so terrible?"

"As soon as I would close my eyes I would commence dreaming of my execution and imagined the Sheriff made a bad job of it and I was dying a slow strangulation. The thing that has worried me most since I was sentenced to die is the fear that something will go wrong on the scaffold and I will be choked to death. Instead of my neck broken, but I am sure I will not suffer near as much as this real hanging today as I did last night; I suffered fifty deaths in my dreams."

"It must have been a terrible thought for you to know the exact time at which you are to die."

"I never cost me a meal or an hour's sleep last night. Thursday morning I slept till eight o'clock, when the jailer woke me up for breakfast. I have been in the jail ever since. I have been in making my peace with God, and know He forgives me. I am dying for a murderer committed by me. I have been knowing that when the Sheriff is through his work I will be with my Jesus."

"Do you think you are going to die?"

"No, I do not, but it is too late to talk about that. I am dying for a murderer committed by me. I have been knowing that when the Sheriff is through his work I will be with my Jesus."

"Why did you plead guilty?"

"I was never in a court before and knew nothing of law. Every one that spoke to me advised me to plead guilty and throw myself on the mercy of the court and I did so. The judge, in his mercy, sentenced me to hang, and in less than two hours the sentence was carried out, but I am satisfied and am not complaining."

"Have you made all preparations for death?"

"Yes, I have been attended by two ministers daily for the last month. I have had my wife and the prisoners good-by and know they all feel sorry for me. The way some of them pressed my hand when I bid them good-by for the last time made me feel bad, especially the man Ripley, who has been so good to me in trying to comfort me and bear me up when all others seemed to have abandoned me. If only they would not punish my wife for the crime which she knows nothing about, she could die happy."

"Do you wish to make any statement about the crime before you die?"

"Yes, I want to state that Henry Jackson killed that peddler, and I helped him cut up the body. My wife knows nothing about the murder, and is in jail for a crime she never committed. I have done wrong in telling so many different stories about this murder, but now my time on this earth is very short and I told what was so, just before I died. God would punish me for it. Jackson swore my life away and called God to witness what he said, but God knows he lied. I forgive him for what he has done and hope to meet him in heaven."

"Do you intend to say anything on the scaffold?"

"No, I will only ask those assembled there to pray for me, and I will forgive them and bid them all good-by. I wish you would say for me that I desired to thank all my friends for the kindness they showed me, especially the Dawsons who were so good to me while I was in jail."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

The crime for which William Brown was executed today surpassed in brutality any criminal act ever committed in Southern Illinois, and showed the murderer to be a most cruel and inhuman butcher. Lavigne, a poor, unfortunate, crippled, Russian exile, knocked at the door of Brown's hut near Cahokia on the evening of February 21, and after gaining admittance opened his peddler's pack, containing jewelry and an assortment of children's toys, clothing, etc. Brown desired to make some purchases, but as his wife was not home, the peddler was induced to await Mrs. Brown's return. A fellow-peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut with tinware was driven from the house, with instructions never to return. Brown pulled the black cap over his face and Sheriff Ripley touched the spring which caused the door to open. Brown stepped out and, while being shaved, Brown choked merrily with the barber and seemed to have no care upon his mind. "It is a beautiful day," said Brown, "but the weather makes no difference to a man that is going to die. I have made up my mind to die without grumbling at anything, and would not care if it was raining hard, and the day as bad as could be."

two deputies and Prosecuting Attorney Holder visited Cahokia next day and discovered the most damning evidence of Brown's guilt. The sides of the wall of his house were bespattered with blood, a large pool of blood was found in one room partially erased by scrubbing, but still plainly visible, an axe covered with blood and used for chopping the body was found in one corner of the house and a search in the fire-place was rewarded with the discovery of the charred remains of the skull, burned pieces of the hands and feet and a congealed mass of blood, burned flesh, brain matter and ashes all mixed in one heap. A large quantity of cheap jewelry was also found in the store. When confronted with the evidence of his guilt Brown confessed his innocence, but weakened when told that a howling mob was outside clamoring toynch him. He then related a very plausible story of how himself, two other colored men and a white man murdered the peddler. The story was investigated and found to be a pure fabrication. The tin peddler who accompanied Lavigne to Brown's hut was found in St. Louis and positively identified the pack as Lavigne's property. He called at Brown's hut about February 25 to inquire for his friend, but was threatened with immediate death unless he left the premises. According to the tin peddler Lavigne had only seventy-five cents when he was murdered. During his confinement in jail previous to his trial, Brown earned the reputation of being a lower than a dog.

making a different confession every day for two weeks, each confession fully contradicting all previous statements. The Deputy Sheriff went out on numerous fruitless chases in search of imaginary accomplices in Brown's crime, till the Sheriff refused to pay any attention to the alleged confessions. On the strength of one of these confessions a colored friend of Brown's named Jackson was arrested. The Grand Jury failed to believe the confession, and the opinion prevailed among the jury that Lavigne had only seventy-five cents when he was murdered. Brown's confession was a statement of the actual murder and mutilation of the body was acquiesced in the fact that in no case before the body was found. Mrs. Mary Brown was indicted on the information furnished in one of her husband's confessions in which he accused her of being the party who used the axe. He since repeatedly denied that his wife knew anything about the murder, but the prosecution is in possession of strong evidence against her, and she is almost certain of securing a life sentence in the penitentiary for the part she took in the crime for which her husband was executed to-day.

THE TRIAL.
Brown and his wife were arraigned for trial on April 7. A sentence was granted and he was sentenced to the present term of Court. Brown pleaded guilty as charged in the indictment. His attorney, a strong appeal for mercy, begging a life sentence in the penitentiary. Brown then made a statement to the judge, of which the following is a substance: Brown and Jackson were at the former's house when Lavigne knocked at the door and asked for lodgings for the night. Brown refused, but Lavigne pressed him, saying the night was cold. Jackson called Brown to one side and whispered the peddler must be allowed to stay, as he has plenty of money. Lavigne was shown to a room with a bed. Jackson followed with an axe and struck the peddler on the head as he was preparing to go to bed. The peddler was used until the man was dead. Jackson then cut off the head, hands, feet and mutilated the body in the condition in which it was found. Brown assisted in burying the body. Jackson denied the statement in court, and solemnly swore before God to witness that he was trying to swear away his life. The Judge took occasion to say that the murder was the most cold-blooded and brutal that had ever come to his notice, and was actuated by the meanest of motives—envy. Brown wept like a child while the death sentence was being passed.

DISGRACED HIS PULPIT.
Rev. Henry E. Puette of Shelbyville, Ill., Charged with Adultery.
By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 30.—A social sensation of immense proportions is just now shaking up this community from center to circumference. Rev. Henry E. Puette has in this city for more than a year past. His brilliant oratory, as well as his high social accomplishments, has made him a prominent figure in society. He was very attractive in form and appearance, and his curly locks, excellent tenor voice and winning ways made him a general favorite with the elite of the city. The most disgraceful charges, including adultery and debauchery, are made. The details are entirely

He has been repeatedly commanded to appear before the officers of his church and have the charges investigated. To all of the requests of his relatives he has not paid the slightest heed, nor has he in any way attempted to refute the startling allegations. Recognizing the fact that he in any event would be banished, he tendered his resignation. Last night a meeting of the church officers was held and a last chance given him to deny the charges. He failed to put in an appearance, either in person or by counsel. A plain statement of the case was made by the investigating committee, and after due deliberation it was unanimously agreed to

ACCEPT THE RESIGNATION.
Mr. Puette came from Tallula, Ill., highly recommended as a minister and gentleman. He is a young man, under 30 years of age, and his domestic relations were seemingly of the happiest nature. He has a wife and two beautiful children. Rumors of a still more startling character are rife, and further developments are not improbable.

FED THE FLAMES.
A Residence Near Marshall, Mo.—Road Machine Shops Destroyed at Chicago.
By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

MARSHALL, Mo., May 30.—The residence of W. H. Thomas, situated six miles south of town, caught fire last night about 9 o'clock and burned to the ground. The fire caught from a defective fuse. A portion of the contents were also destroyed. Loss on building, $2,400; insured for $1,800.

Railroad Shops Burned.
CHICAGO, May 30.—The shops of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, just beyond the western boundary of the city, were partially burned this morning. The loss is not yet ascertained. Two fire engines from this city were dispatched to the scene.

THE KRUPP TUNNEL ACCIDENT.
Verdict of the Coroner's Jury and Names of the Dead.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 30.—The coroner's investigation of the Krupp Tunnel accident concluded last night and a verdict was rendered exonerating the contractors from all blame, every precaution having been taken and the accident found to be the effect of quicksand. The names of the men killed outright are Joseph Frank, Angelo Frank, Frank Francis, Francesco Rizz, Luigi Caradino, Giovanni Curcio, David Carmichael. They were Spaniards and Hungarians. Two others have since died, but their names have not been learned. They were known to the boss by numbers. The others injured will probably recover.

MURDERED HER CHILDREN
A Maniac Mother and Her Horrible Butchery—The Last Act.
ALBANY, N. Y., May 30.—Last night Mrs. Christopher Schreffer, insane, cut the throats of her four little children with a razor. The heads of all four were severed from the bodies. She then killed a young daughter, ran to the railroad track and sat down on the rails, waiting for a train to kill them. She was found with her head, both legs and an arm amputated. The girl's left foot and left arm were cut off.

Amalgamated Iron Association.
PITTSBURGH, May 30.—A conference of the iron manufacturers and Amalgamated Association is called for to-morrow, when, it is stated, last year's scale will be agreed upon, amendments and a statement continued. The Leechburg, Pa., mill, and Kirkpatrick & Co. signed the scale to-day.

Died From the Effects of a Stab.
NEWCASTLE, Pa., May 30.—William Peters, aged 32, died last night from wounds received in a quarrel three weeks ago. Peters and a man named Kelly had a dispute about a coal burner. Kelly was finally stabbed in the back with a pen-knife. Kelly is now in the hospital and it did not inflict the wounds.

Closed by the Sheriff.
GREENSBORO, Pa., May 30.—Sheriff Rank's book and gun-furnishing goods store has been closed by the sheriff on executions amounting to $20,000.

RAILWAY TICKET RATES REDUCED.

To Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Omaha, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Nashville, Buffalo and 300 other points.
J. W. Stockbridge, R. E. Ticket Broker,
605 WASHINGTON AVENUE (under Lindell Hotel).

CITY ITEMS.

The justly famous "Anderson" and Belmont four mesh whistles and all other liquors in quantities to suit, at lowest prices, delivered free by James Lupton & Co., 524 and 526 Olive street.

Pozson's Medicated Complexion Powder is the best—does not injure the skin.

J. I. Mayer & Co.'s New Nickel cigar is still on the boom. Gentle smokers, do you want a 10c Havana mild cigar for 7c? Try J. I. Mayer & Co.'s New Nickel. All druggists and grocers have them on sale.

Dr. E. C. Chase,
222 Olive street. Set of teeth $5.
Private matters skillfully treated, and medicines furnished. Dr. Disbrow, 514 Pine street.

Private matters skillfully treated, and medicines furnished. Dr. Jacques, 705 Chestnut street.
Old Dr. Whittier, a regular graduate, 617 St. Charles street, as for twenty-five years, may be found from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., where remarkable cures may be had of blood diseases, impediments to marriage, etc., all diseases of indigestion, excesses, indulgences, safe medicines; consultation free. Marriage Guide, 150 pages, sent sealed to any address, 50 cents, or at office.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

President Arthur went to New York on Thursday. Secretary Chandler has decided not to go the Chicago Convention. Sir Henry Barlow Edward Press died in London on Thursday.

Congressman Worthington of Florida is still in the field for re-election. The Methodist General Conference in Baltimore adjourned late last night.

W. H. Vanderbilt has transferred to W. E. Vanderbilt $100,000 more of United States bonds.

The Emperor held the annual spring review of troops in Berlin Thursday, appearing on horseback.

France and the Vatican are negotiating for the appointment of French Cardinals to the next Consistory.

F. Cushman, second son of the late President Grant, died at his residence in New York on Thursday.

Robert Sloan of Pittsburgh was killed in the door of his home by Joseph Delebaugh, on Thursday evening.

Krupp's found, on the South Pennsylvania Road, near Lancaster, Pa., on Thursday, killing eight laborers.

Lord Tennyson was elected president of the society to establish international copyright laws between England and America.

The Polish poet, Kraskiewicz, has been sent to jail. The petition to the Emperor for his pardon is headed by Prince Radzinski.

Daniel T. Sullivan and Timothy Harrington, members for County Westmeath, will give $700 each by their constituents Sunday.

It is expected that the riding of the Nile will enable Gen. Gordon's army to push communications from Khartoum with Berber and to the Nile.

The Egyptian conference will meet in London, June 25. Before that time the question of multiple control will have been agreed upon by the Powers.

There was a fierce engagement Thursday between the Seventh and Cavalry regiments near Elkanah. Five persons were killed and many wounded.

The French Government has received the ratification of the convention of the revolution of 1793. They will also have a brilliant celebration in 1884.

Two burials of Kansas County, Texas, shot and killed his brother-in-law, J. C. McCabe, Thursday night. The murder was approved, and McCabe was hanged by a mob.

The Minnesota Democratic State Convention yesterday received the names of Tilden with great enthusiasm, and delegates to Chicago are generally in favor of the old ticket.

A crazy German woman of Albany, N. Y., named Caroline Schreier, murdered five of her children and then with the aid in her arms thrust herself under a train. She was killed.

A gold mine at Elizabeth and Castle Rock, thirty-three miles south of Denver, Col., is claimed to be the greatest gold mine ever discovered in America. A large number of companies have been formed to develop it.

Dr. Nachtigal, the explorer, has embarked for Africa. He is in the name of the German Empire. From there the expedition will go to the Congo country.

The House Judiciary Committee has reported favorably a bill dividing the United States Court District of Kansas into two districts, to be in effect on January 1, 1885.

The place of holding the terms will be Wichita in September and Fort Scott in March.

Richmond Straight Cut Cigarettes contain the brightest gold leaf tobacco grown in Virginia.

BLOUSE SUITS FOR BOYS.

We are making to order the most stylish suits for boys ever shown in St. Louis. Special attention is asked to the Elegant Blouse Suits we are introducing.

MILLS & AVERILL.

S. E. Cor. 5th and Pine Sts.

Narrow Escape From Death.

A few days ago a terrific stampede of cattle took place on one of the vast ranches in Northern Texas. The countless throng of maddened steers made the earth tremble as they rushed along. A cowboy who had been guarding the herd was thrown from his horse, and in the moment the drove were on him. Seeing his imminent danger he made a desperate leap for a steer's back, intending to hold on for dear life, but he miscalculated the distance, and missing the back of the animal, found himself, by a lucky chance, perched on the brute's horns, one of which ran through the midst of his hair. After a desperate ride of over twenty miles, the steer fell exhausted, and our hero was released from his perilous position. The following day he was rescued from him by the Post-Dispatch to-day: "I owe my salvation to 'Punch'! Clothing House D. B. Stock, 1014 Broadway, the pants from them about a month ago for $20; they were all wool and strongly built, and stood the racket. I will send you the largest pair of horns in Texas next week. Yours truly, JOHN HOSKINS, Rancho No. 10.

EXCITEMENT STILL UNABATED.

Thousands Depert Delighted With Their Bargains, and Pronounce Fifth Street Prices Double of Ours.
See for yourself. Men's union casimere suits, $1.75; better grades, $2.50. Fine black diagonal suits, $3; children's suits, 75 cents; better grades, $1.50. Boys' suits up to 17 years, $1.50; good ones at $2.50. A pair of men's pants for 50 cents; an all-wool 30 pants for $1.50; men's white vests, 15 cents; men's undershirts, 10 cents; men's and boys' coats, 15 cents, and thousands of other articles which come from the great Boston bankrupt sale, and are being sold at 50 cents on the dollar. Satisfaction guaranteed in every instance or money refunded, at the GLOBE, 714 and 716 Franklin avenue.
N. B.—We sell clothing 25 per cent cheaper than any Fifth street house who advertises and pretends to sell cheap. Come and see for yourself.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

A special meeting of the Council was held last night, all of the members present, Mayor Winton presiding. After the minutes of last meeting were read the following business was transacted: On motion Judge Laune's bond as City Treasurer was approved. A motion was made that John M. Sullivan, Treasurer, M. T. Stoddy, County Treasurer, and George W. Danach be ordered to turn over all money and papers in their hands to Judge Laune, City Treasurer. It was agreed that the East St. Louis Signal be the official organ of the city. Carried. A petition read from the St. Louis Bolt and Iron Company for the privilege of laying water pipes to their mill through certain streets of the city was granted.

A trunk containing clothing was found under the sidewalk in front of the police station this morning. Letters were found in the trunk addressed to John McCall, East St. Louis. It awaits an answer at the police station.

R. E. Gossard, for fast driving on the bridge, paid $5 and costs.

John Jordan was arrested last night for running a vehicle without license, and was fined $5 and costs this morning.

Orestis Dawson, arrested this morning for running a vehicle without license, was fined $5 and costs. Andrew Gell, a St. Louis butcher, for torturing calves on the streets, was fined $5 and costs.

Outburst of the Bladder.
Shocking, trifling, inflammation, all kidney and urinary troubles cured by "Buckley's."

REAL ESTATE.

A Marked Revival in the Local Market.

Continuation of the Building Boom—The Big Co-Operative Sale—A "Dead-End" Register Among Real Estate Agents Which Works Well.

The local real estate market is just recovering from the silver which the recent New York panic sent through it. While the trouble was new neither buyers nor sellers could see the advantage of making an announcement of the effects of the panic, but it is now very generally admitted that the trouble caused a quiver or two locally. The recovery is not yet complete, notwithstanding the hopeful assertions and the protestations of the sufferers. A saunter among the real estate agents this week revealed the fact that things were still very dull, and the reply to any question concerning the news was wonderfully uniform, viz: That there was none. Mr. Papis of Seventh and Chestnut streets said: "I would not say the market has been dull but transactions have been light. The panic turn of affairs in New York greatly retarded business here I think. During the first part of the week we had three sales which averaged $13,000. Had it not been for the excitement coming on in New York we would have had three or four large events and one particularly large sale—an estate—but this has delayed it. An event of the present week, which caused considerable talk was the purchase of the 'Pickwick' property adjoining the city little theater on Jefferson and Washington avenues. The question has been 'What will he do with it?' and to discover the agent was called upon and said: 'Mr. Cole bought the property as a business speculation and I think made a very good one. The property was knocked down at $111 a foot and it is worth $125.'

"Do you know what disposition will be made of it?" "I can't positively state, but I don't think any changes will be made for the present. The 'Pickwick' is a very pretty place, but has not paid. You know the engagement last season. The new place, which the purchasers intend building now. The residents of the neighborhood would be very much interested in the corner built up now, and they have recently expressed themselves in the columns of newspapers on this subject. Mr. Cole has bought the place as a business speculation, and in all probability will continue to let it out as it has been heretofore rented."

THE CO-OPERATIVE SALE
At the Exchange pavilion will be the first real estate transaction of any consequence, and the indications are that it will be a decided success. The sale will take place June 10 and "mark my words," said Judge Latham, "it will be a roaring success." Between $200,000 and $300,000. The property, located in various parts of the city, will be put up. Applications for catalogues and details have been numerous. Upward of sixty pieces of property are to be sold. June 10 will be a gala day at the Exchange. This morning the room was packed with the sign-boards of a uniform size, and of a very attractive appearance. Everybody interested is working to make the sale a big thing. Assistant Secretary Mark, president of the Real Estate Exchange, was busy answering visitors' questions this morning, when called upon by a reporter.

"What sized houses are in most demand?" "Well, fully three-fourths of the callers here are looking for four or six-room houses with a rent of $25 or $30. The demand for such houses is always good, and I believe it will continue to put up twenty-five such houses and he could erect good houses, buy ground and all for $2,000. The remaining four want rooms in tenement districts or else nine and ten-room houses. This is about the character of the daily demand. The callers average between 175 and 200 per day all through the month."

"How does the number of callers this year compare with last year?" "I just about this time last year, and I think it is just about the same number on the boards now than there was in May, 1883—something between 200 and 300. This year nearly all the vacant houses in town, as fully as they are reported on between the Exchange and the Exchange."

E. S. Warner reported good sales, footing up $38,000. D. B. Stock, 1014 Broadway, has a large number of property on Laclede avenue, between Cerrito and Boyle streets.

AMONG THE ARCHITECTS
Matters were as dull as among the real estate men. Contemplated improvements were too far off to be made public with most of the managers of the pencil and compass. Mr. C. K. Ramsey has furnished the plan for P. Mullen's new residence on Day street near Glasgow avenue. It will be a three-story, with twelve rooms and a detached carriage house. The house will be finished with terra cotta. The cost is not given, but it is safe to say it will be upward of $10,000, as an elegant residence is proposed.

The design of D. B. Gould's new house, on the south side of Washington avenue, between Eighth and Ninth streets, is private, but does credit to the designer. It will be six stories high, sixty feet front by seventy-five feet deep. The front will be finished in terra cotta, joining the footing and center of the columns will be Missouri granite. All the granite in the front will be Missouri, both rough and polished. The owner's name will be cut in relief in a stone between the stories. The building will be ninety feet high.

A DEAD BEAT BOOK.
While a reporter was among the real estate agents to-day one irate gentleman was met and asked for news that might interest the moneyed citizens. "I have none, but I'll tell you what you can do. You can inform the world of bills and dead beats that there are such a thing as a real estate book, and that it is a useless to try their blasted games on me. Don't mention my name, though." After this excited but brief speech the exasperated portener of lands sank into his chair and cuss words with shameful lavishness. Having avoided an explosion in this manner, he was engaged in a talk in which he explained himself. "Oh, yes, we keep a dead-beat book. It is a private affair or given any circulation. In my estimation it's the best feature of the Exchange. I should like to let you peruse the book, but it is too private. Drop into the Exchange and you may get a glance at it. This invitation was accepted and a visit rewarded with a glance. The assistant secretary was at work on the second volume. It is a large and very completely indexed volume so heavy that it is shifted about with much trouble. In one column, under the heading 'Names,' appeared the names of a number of persons. Opposite this was the name of the real estate agent who reported with the number of the house formerly occupied by the book-keeper. In the last column, under the heading 'Names,' appeared various entries all of an unpleasant character, such as 'Clerk D. B. Stock—Owes $15. Pays first month in advance, and no more—owes 3 months and took the keys, maliciously destroyed the house—burned the wood-shed partition, and number of other entries appeared, but the inspection was cut short by the assistant secretary's discovery that strange eyes were peering from the pages of the volume.

"Now I can explain how this is run," said the agent. "Whenever I run across one of these beats I send the name with my own, the number of the house, the amount due, and in fact a short history of the dealings. I might be mistaken and send down an honest person's name, but this is soon rectified, for as soon as the rent is paid, the fact is noted in red ink. Whenever I have a suspicious caller I learn the name and either refer him to the Exchange or drop in myself and get the rating if they are in the book. It is a self-protective measure. We don't catalogue these people, they would beggar us in a year's time. The book is well kept. We are closely informed as to the transactions to it, and we've got the bulge on the beats; it makes a man mad to have three 'chronics' come in on him within the same hour. That's what's just happened to me."

IT IS THIS SHOULD MEET THE EYE of anyone suffering from Bronchitis, Consumption, Asthma, or any Pulmonary Affection, we would refer them to Dr. Jayne's Expecto-rant, which will in all cases, afford speedy relief, and in most effect a speedy cure.

Municipal Assembly.

At the meeting of the Council last night a bill to establish the lot between Rauschenbach avenue, Twenty-second street, St. Louis avenue and Herbert street, as a public square, was introduced by Mr. Zell. The bill relating to the appointment of officers from the Training School for Nurses was passed. A similar disposition was made of the bill awarding the dead animal contractor the carcasses of dogs, and as the pound and ordaining that all the carcasses of such animals shall be branded. "Product of Dead Animals." Mr. Haines reported that no agreement had been arrived at by the conference on the increase of the police force. A new conference committee composed of Devor, Parker and Scudder was appointed. A motion to delay the Elevated and Rapid Transit Railway bill by referring section 2 to the R. E. F. I. was lost, and a proviso that all brought from the street subject to the board's approval was introduced. It was arranged that the company should pay thirty $25,000, whether the road was built or not. During this discussion the new conference committee on police increase agreed to disagree, and on reporting were replaced by Messrs. Stone, Zell and Vastina. The opium ordinance passed and the Council adjourned until to-night.

THE SCOTTS.
An ordinance, turning over all fines collected for cruelty to animals to the Humane Society, was introduced by Mr. Richardson. The attention of the police was called by Mr. Wagner, per resolution, to the fact that the Iron Mountain Railroad was running trains faster than the law allowed, within the city limits. The Commission decided by vote not to remove the Court House fence. An ordinance for a floating dump at the foot of Brown avenue was reported and recommended.

to the Public Improvements Committee. Messrs. Harris, Sullivan and Schwabacher were appointed a conference committee on the appropriation bill. The Forest Park Cable Railway bill was held over till next meeting. The bill to extend the Hill Creek sewer to Vandeventer avenue passed. Messrs. MacManus, Davis and Brennan were appointed a conference committee on the police bill, but after recess were replaced by Messrs. Corns, Davis and Harris. Adjourned.

THE MCGINNIS CASE.
In the examination of Frank McGinnis, charged with making false weights on the Missouri Pacific Railroad, held in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday, J. S. White turned State's evidence and said he had made the proposition to give low weights to Mr. Muecke of the Eau Claire Lumber Company and received 20 per cent of the savings as his share. He gave McGinnis $27 as his share of one deal with the lumber company. The case was laid over until next Monday afternoon.

DR. PRICE'S GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.
CURES:
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swelling, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, AND ALL OTHER SUDDEN PAINS AND ACRES. Sold by Druggists and Grocers. Price 25 cents. THE CHARLES A. VOGLER CO., Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

TEST YOUR BAKING POWDER TO-DAY!
Breads advertised as absolutely pure CONTAIN AMMONIA.
THE TEST:
Place a can top down on a hot stove until heated, then remove the cover and pour out. It should not be required to detect the presence of ammonia.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER.
DOES NOT CONTAIN AMMONIA.
ITS REPUTATION HAS NEVER BEEN QUESTIONED.
In a million homes for a quarter of a century it has stood the test of the oven.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO., BAKERS OF
Dr. Price's Special Flavoring Extracts,
The strongest, most delicious and natural flavoring,
Dr. Price's Lupulin Yeast Gums
For Light, Healthy Bread, The Best Dry Mix
Yeast in the World.
FOR SALE BY GROCERS.
CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

Electric-Light SOAP
IS THE BEST. Inquire of your Grocer.
ELECTRIC SOAP MANUFACTURING CO., Indianapolis, Ind.
T. E. DILLON, AUCTIONEER.
Bankrupt stocks sold daily at saleroom, Star Auction House, 15 S. Broadway, St. Louis. Special attention given to the sale of stocks of goods, household furniture, etc.
MANHOOD RESTORED.
victim of early impotence, etc., having tried in vain every remedy, has discovered a simple means of cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers. Address, J. H. LEEVES, 41 Chatham St., New York.
DEBILITY.
quickly cured by the CHIVALRE METHOD. Adopted in all the HOSPITALS OF FRANCE. Prompt return of VIGOR. Simple cases, $25; Severe ones, $50 to $100. Pamphlet free. Circulars sent on request. 100 Nassau St., New York.

CHILDREN'S KILTS,

2 to 5 years, Splendid Ones, $2. Sailor Suits, 3 to 10 years, all-wool, $1 50, $2 50 and $3.

BOYS' SUITS,

10 to 13 Years, all-wool, price $6 00.

MEN'S PANTS

Nothing to compete with them. Price $2 50.

THE BEST LINES OF MEN'S SUITS

At $10, $12 and $15 in new shades and styles.

POLACK'S

213 and 215 Broadway, bet. Pine & Olive

SPECIAL NOTICE.

DISOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.—The firm of Koch & Sommerfeld, was dissolved May 25, 1884. Mr. Koch retiring, Mr. Sommerfeld assumes all liabilities and collects all the outstanding indebtedness.

Electric-Light SOAP

IS THE BEST. Inquire of your Grocer. ELECTRIC SOAP MANUFACTURING CO., Indianapolis, Ind.

T. E. DILLON, AUCTIONEER.

Bankrupt stocks sold daily at saleroom, Star Auction House, 15 S. Broadway, St. Louis. Special attention given to the sale of stocks of goods, household furniture, etc.

MANHOOD RESTORED.

victim of early impotence, etc., having tried in vain every remedy, has discovered a simple means of cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers. Address, J. H. LEEVES, 41 Chatham St., New York.

DEBILITY.

quickly cured by the CHIVALRE METHOD. Adopted in all the HOSPITALS OF FRANCE. Prompt return of VIGOR. Simple cases, $25; Severe ones, $50 to $100. Pamphlet free. Circulars sent on request. 100 Nassau St., New York.

FOR SALE BY GROCERS.

CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

THIS BEING MEMORIAL DAY,

OUR ESTABLISHMENT WILL BE CLOSED,

As it is our custom to devote Decoration Day to rest and recreation for the benefit of our employes.

F.W. Humphrey & Co.

BROADWAY, CORNER FINE ST.

419

CAKES' CANDY

AND

ICE CREAM PALACE

andies 40c per lb., 3 lbs. $1.

Purest in the World

SPECIAL NOTICES.

NOTICE OF ELECTION.—An election for four trustees of the Concord Mutual Life Insurance Company of St. Louis, to serve for a term of four years, will be held at the office of the company, No. 712 Pine street, on Monday, June 3, 1884, at 9 o'clock a. m. and closed at 12 o'clock m.

E. WILKERSON, President.

NOTICE is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago & North Western Transportation Company will be held at the office of said Company, 101 North Second street, in the city of St. Louis, on Wednesday, June 4, 1884, for the election of directors and transacting such other business as may be brought before the meeting. Folia open from 9 o'clock a. m. to 12 o'clock m.

PAUL A. PUGH, Secretary.

OFFICE OF THE EXPOSITION AND MUSEUM HALL, 502 Pine Street, St. Louis, May 30, 1884.

Proposals will be received at this office up to June 10, 1884, for the following permits and privileges in connection with the first annual exposition, September 2 to October 10, 1884:

1. Stand—3 stands.

2. Stand—3 stands.

3. Stand—3 stands.

4. Stand—3 stands.

5. Stand—3 stands.

6. Stand—3 stands.

7. Stand—3 stands.

8. Stand—3 stands.

9. Stand—3 stands.

10. Stand—3 stands.

11. Stand—3 stands.

12. Stand—3 stands.

13. Stand—3 stands.

14. Stand—3 stands.

15. Stand—3 stands.

16. Stand—3 stands.

17. Stand—3 stands.

18. Stand—3 stands.

19. Stand—3 stands.

20. Stand—3 stands.

21. Stand—3 stands.

22. Stand—3 stands.

23. Stand—3 stands.

24. Stand—3 stands.

25. Stand—3 stands.

26. Stand—3 stands.

27. Stand—3 stands.

28. Stand—3 stands.

29. Stand—3 stands.

30. Stand—3 stands.

31. Stand—3 stands.

32. Stand—3 stands.

33. Stand—3 stands.

34. Stand—3 stands.

35. Stand—3 stands.

36. Stand—3 stands.

37. Stand—3 stands.

38. Stand—3 stands.

39. Stand—3 stands.

40. Stand—3 stands.

41. Stand—3 stands.

42. Stand—3 stands.

43. Stand—3 stands.

44. Stand—3 stands.

45. Stand—3 stands.

46. Stand—3 stands.

47. Stand—3 stands.

48. Stand—3 stands.

49. Stand—3 stands.

50. Stand—3 stands.

51. Stand—3 stands.

52. Stand—3 stands.

53. Stand—3 stands.

54. Stand—3 stands.